

PHD PROGRAMME HUMAN RIGHTS IN CONTEMPORARY SOCIETIES RESEARCH METHODOLOGIES SEMINAR AND THESIS PROJECT

RECOMMENDED PREREQUISITES

The same prerequisites for being accepted in the doctoral program, including English proficiency.

TEACHING METHODS

Monitoring the preparative work leading to the PhD project. To achieve the objectives will be put into work, with individual follow-up, and dealing with the matters addressed in the seminar, namely, a detailed report on progress on dissertation.

The evaluation of this report will be made in discussion with the student, by a jury consisting of a Professor specialized on the thesis subject in addition to his/her supervisor.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

To provide students the methods of investigation for the work that will develop.

To provide situations in which the student is confronted with the presentation of a scientific work.

To provide students the scientific and logistics for the preparation of their research project.

SYLLABUS

This course is intended to provide the scientific and logistics for the implementation of doctoral dissertations.

The seminar will involve the participation of several specialists in research methods, which will enable the acquisition and development of knowledge regarding different methods for gathering and analysing data. This will be tailored to the specific needs of students.

Each student will be accompanied by a supervisor designated for this purpose and should be part of the cast of teachers of this program. The mentor and the student should schedule a series of meetings to follow tutorials, which should never provide less than 30 contact hours during the year. These meetings will set the annual work plan will be gauged in several meetings between the student and his advisor, to develop the work.

ASSESSMENT METHODS

Assessment

Frequency: 20.0%

Project: 40.0%

Oral presentation : 40.0%

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Booth, Wayne C.; Colomb, Gregory G.; Williams, Joseph M. (2003), The Craft of Research. Chicago: University of Chicago press

Della Porta, Donatella; and Michael Keating (2008) (eds.), Approaches and Methodologies in the Social Sciences. Cambridge University Press.

Ryan-Flood, Róisín; Gill, Rosalind (2010) (eds.), Secrecy and Silence in the Research Process. Routledge, Chapters. 12, 17, 18.

Valenzuela-Fuentes, Katia (2018), "Militant ethnography and autonomous politics in Latin America", Qualitative Research, online first, 1-17.