

Post-Doctoral Researcher (1 Vacancy)

The Centre for Social Studies (CES) – Associate Laboratory - University of Coimbra (Portugal), invites applications for one Post-Doctoral Researcher position in the project “Animals and Plants in Cultural Productions about the Amazon River Basin-ECO” (Grant Agreement 101002359), funded by the European Research Council (ERC) under the framework program H2020, and coordinated by the Principal Investigator (PI), Patrícia Vieira.

Scholars working on the Amazon River Basin with a background in Environmental History, with a focus on the Amazon and critical plant studies, or other relevant fields are welcome to apply.

A. Project Description

Animals and plants feature prominently in cultural productions about the Amazon River Basin, testifying to the centrality of the region’s natural environment both for local populations and for the earth’s biosphere. The key hypothesis of ECO is that texts (broadly understood to include mythology, folk tales, the lyrics of songs, essays, literature, travel writings, etc.), cinema and art about this area highlight the ways in which non-human beings dynamically shape human cultural life. The project’s main challenge is to resort both to Amazonian thought and to the academic field of ecocriticism to assess how human cultural productions about Amazonia lend a voice to animals and plants. ECO develops the concept of zoophytography to describe the inscription of non-humans in texts, films and artworks, thus decentering humanity as the sole source of meaning-making.

ECO will make a significant contribution to the environmental humanities, offering an Amazonian perspective on ecocriticism, environmental philosophy and post-colonial studies. By creating a deeper understanding of conceptions of Amazonian fauna and flora, the project will reveal the interdependence of humans and non-humans, draw attention to environmental degradation in Amazonia and uncover more equitable views on animals and plants from the region.

ECO started on January 1, 2022, with a duration of 60 months.
